Who is the Course for?

Do I need any prior experience? Yes, you should have a good working understanding of the language and to have completed the AS course.

Will I need an Interview? No

What are the aims of the course?

This course builds on the AS course and continues to strengthen your ability to communicate confidently, clearly and effectively in Spanish through both the written and spoken word.

El curso intenta continuar el desarrollo de la lengua española pero utilizando los temas contemporáneos de la sociedad que nos rodea.

What topics will I cover?

The state and the individual, distribution of wealth, health issues, transport issues, science and technology, racism, crime and punishment and two cultural topics such as films or history.

What will the sessions consist of?

Much use is made of Spanish in the classroom. Most lessons will include a variety of activities - expect the opportunity to speak in pairs or group work, undertake exercises to increase vocabulary, give oral presentations, explanation and revision of grammar, short written tasks and exercises.

How is the course assessed?

Assessment is by exam in the summer of 2012. It consists of a number of papers covering listening, speaking, reading and writing.

How can I prepare for the course?

Watch films and read books and newspapers in Spanish. If possible, access Spanish radio via the internet.
